

Invitation to the Inaugural Lecture
during the Dies Facultatis

universität wien

REAL HALLUCINATIONS: PSYCHIATRIC ILLNESS, INTENTIONALITY, AND THE INTERPERSONAL WORLD

Faculty of Philosophy and Education
Monday, 9 May 2016, 17:00 pm
University of Vienna, Lecture Hall BIG 1, Universitätsring 1, 1010 Vienna

Matthew Ratcliffe
Professor for Theoretical Philosophy

MATTHEW RATCLIFFE

has been Professor for Theoretical Philosophy at the Faculty of Philosophy and Education since April 2015.

1991–94 studied Philosophy and Psychology (BA) at Durham University. 1994–99 studied History and Philosophy of Science (MPhil and then PhD) at the University of Cambridge. 2000–02 Lecturer in Philosophy at University College Cork. 2002–15 Lecturer, Senior Lecturer (promoted 2006), Reader (promoted 2007), and then Professor (promoted 2009) at the Department of Philosophy, Durham University.

Research areas:

Phenomenology; philosophy of psychiatry; philosophy of mind.

Current research topics:

Emotions, feelings, and moods; intersubjectivity and empathy; hallucinations and delusions; the sense of touch; the nature of grief.